

MASTER OF HUMANITARIAN AND DEVELOPMENT STUDIES (1866)

Approved Abbreviation: MHumanDevSt
Western Sydney University Program Code: 1866

CRICOS Code: 096600D

NOTE: Program 1866 Master of Humanitarian and Development Studies is no longer available. From Spring session 2022, if you're interested in completing the replacement program, please apply for 1895 Master of Humanitarian and Development Studies (<https://hbook.westernsydney.edu.au/programs/master-humanitarian-development-studies-1895/>).

This program applies to students who commenced in 2018 or later.

The Master of Humanitarian and Development Studies (M.HADS) responds to the need for qualified workers in disaster relief and development, in government and non-government agencies involved in humanitarian operations and development practice; addressing challenges and opportunities associated with various forms of national and international migration; public health programming, preparedness and response; and building the resilience of vulnerable populations. The purpose of the programme is for the practical application of specialised theoretical knowledge in humanitarian and development contexts. This is complemented by pathways to advanced research, and by career development support through extensive networks and partnerships, including with International non-government organisations. M.HADS graduates will complete 120 credit points to develop specific skills that are situated in practice and geared towards further learning. They will be able to act with autonomy and accountability in complex areas of risk, equipped with the knowledge derived from substantial research in the coursework, and a placement experience with an industry partner. The structure of the M.HADS is tailored towards individual needs and interests, and is linked to the specific industry requirements of humanitarian and development practitioners.

The M. HADS has both entry and exit points for the Graduate Diploma in Humanitarian and Development Studies (Grad. Dip. HADS) and the Graduate Certificate in Humanitarian and Development Studies (Grad. Cert. HADS).
